

The Handbook of Blended Learning

Global Perspectives Local Designs

Curtis J. Bonk
Charles R. Graham

Blended learning is one of the most talked about trends among training professionals today. Spotlighting the best work of the leaders in the field, this book is the most comprehensive discussion of the topic ever to be published.

Available November 2005

The Handbook of Blended Learning is the first book to provide a forum for issues surrounding the design and implementation of blended learning environments. The book explores the successes and failures, the models and research, the latest ideas and examples that are impacting the design of blended learning environments. The expert panel of contributors will increase awareness of trends and critical issues that readers must consider before launching a blended learning project.

The all-star list of contributors include: Brian Lindquist, Assoc. VP for Academic Affairs, Dean, the College of Graduate Business & Mgmt, University of Phoenix; Pam Pease, Pam Pease & Assoc., past President, Jones International University; Mike Offerman, President, Capella University; Ron Oliver, Edith Cowan University, Australia; Gilly Salmon, Professor of e-Learning and Learning Technologies at the University of Leicester; Jay Cross, Internet Time Group; Lutz Ziob, General Manager, Microsoft Learning; Ellen Wagner, Macromedia; Robert Wisher, Director, Advanced Distributed Learning Initiative, Office of the Under Secretary of Defense; Nancy J.
